

Medical College of Pennsylvania 987 Iatrian

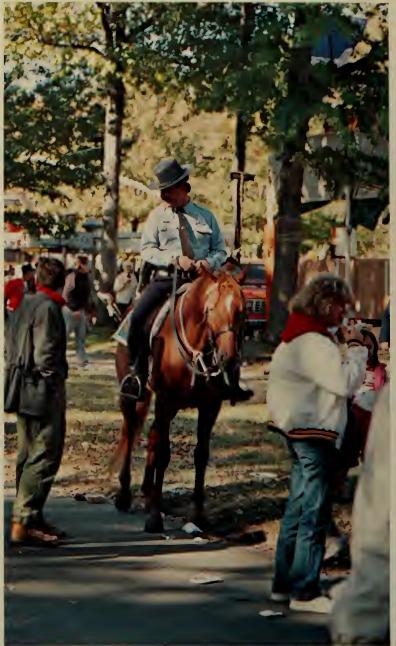

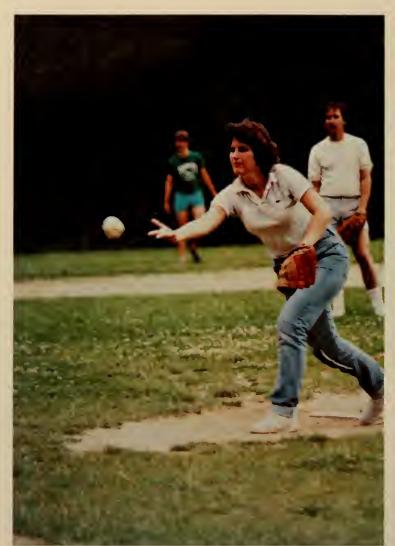

The President

Dear Graduate:

This is a significant moment in your lives. It is a time of reflection as well as anticipation.

In selecting this profession, as Ann Preston stated in her valedictory address in 1858, "You decided for yourselves that here was a worthy and fitting challenge for your energies." These words are as relevant today as they were in 1858. The medical and science professions and you, face exciting and difficult challenges generated by the changes in health care and research.

Your industry, with the support of your families, teachers, and friends has prepared you to meet these challenges with skill, confidence and courage. As you leave your Alma Mater, I encourage you to remember these words of Booker T. Washington:

"Success is to be measured not so much by the position that one has reached in life, as by the obstacles which he has to overcome while trying to succeed."

Hopefully, the fond memories of your many experiences at M.C.P. will remain with you and serve you well during your careers as alumnae/i.

On behalf of everyone at The Medical College of Pennsylvania, I congratulate you and wish you well. We look forward to basking in your successes in the many years ahead.

D. Walter Cohen, D.D.S. President

My love and sincere thanks:

To Mom and Dad for your constant love and financial and emotional support. You agonized with me through every exam and celebrated all the little triumphs along the way. I hope I can repay you for your sacrifices and make you proud.

To my brother, James E. Allen, M.D., for your inspiration and encouragement. You helped me keep things in perspective, helped me study, ordered me to relax, and demonstrated the joy and challenge of medicine as a profession.

To Keith for filling my life with love. You gave me strength and patience when I was nearly out of both. After three long years of two phone calls a week, we can finally be together for the rest of our lives. Thanks for waiting.

"I can't believe that!" said Alice.

"Can't you?" The Queen said in a pitying tone.

"Try again: Draw a long breath, and shut your eyes."

Alice laughed, "There's no use trying," she said.

"One can't believe impossible things."

"I dare say you haven't had much practice" said the Queen. "When I was your age, I always did it for half an hour a day. Why sometimes I've believed as many as six impossible things before breakfast . . . "

But, actually, E. M. Forster is the last person who'd ever go mad; he's far saner than anyone else I know. And immensely, superhumanly strong. He's strong because he doesn't try to be a stiff-lipped stoic, like the rest of us; and so he'll never crack. He's absolutely flexible. He lives by love, not by will.

Christopher Isherwood

The greatest poverty is not to live In a physical world, to feel that one's desire Is too difficult to tell from despair. Perhaps, After death, the non-physical people, in paradise, Itself non-physical, may, by chance, observe The green corn gleaming and experience The minor of what we feel. The adventurer In humanity has not conceived of a race Completely physical in a physical world. The corn gleams and the metaphysicals Lie sprawling in majors of the August Heat, The rotund emotions, paradise unknown.

This is the thesis scrivened in delight, The reverberating psalm, the right chorale.

One might have thought of sight, but who could think Of what it sees, for all the ill it sees. Speech found the ear, for all the evil sound But the dark italics it could not propound. And out of what one sees and hears and out Of what one feels, who could have thought to make So many selves, so many sensuous worlds, As if the air, the mid-day air, was swarming With the metaphysical changes that occur, Merely in living as and where we live.

There's a Path that leads to Nowhere

In a meadow that I know,
Where an inland river rises
And the tream is still and slow;
There it wanders under willows
And beneath the silver green
Of the birches' silent shadows
Where the early violets lean.

All the ways that lead to Somewhere Echo with the hurrying feet
Of the struggling and the Striving
But the way I find so sweet
Bids me dream and bids me linger —
Joy and Beauty are its goal,
On the path that leads to Nowhere
I have sometimes found my soul.

... You can understand people better if you look at them — no matter how old or impressive they may be — as if they are children. For most of us never mature, we simply grow taller . . . Happiness comes only when we push our brains and hearts to the farthest reaches of which we are capable. For the purpose of life is to count, to stand for something, to have it make some difference that we ever lived at all . . .

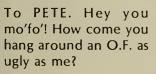

These past four years have been an exciting, sometimes tough academic and emotional roller coaster. I feel privileged to have been in a class with people so intelligent, so eclectic, so vital. You taught me and changed me, cried and laughed with me, played and worked with me. I am so much better for it. THE WAKING

I wake to sleep, and take my waking slow. I feel my fate in what I cannot fear. I learn by going where I have to go.

We think by feeling. What is there to know? I hear my being dance from ear to ear. I wake to sleep, and take my waking slow.

Of those so close beside me, which are you? God bless the Ground! I shall walk softly there, And learn by going where I have to go.

Light takes the Tree; but who can tell us how? The lowly worm climbs up a winding stair; I wake to sleep, and take my waking slow.

Great Nature has another thing to do To you and me: so take the lively air, And, lovely, learn by going where to go.

This shaking keeps me steady. I should know. What falls away is always. And is near. I wake to sleep and take my waking slow. I learn by going where I have to go.

Friends

Housestaff

His prostate was this big!

Don't try this at home kids. These are trained professionals.

How do I learn Surgery? I'm spoon-fed.

You be illin'

This little piggy went to X-ray

Walk like a Pediatrician . . .

Our Student is remote-control

How to survive your residency ...

If you see food, eat it.

If you see a chair, sit on it

If you see a bed, sleep in it. But who needs a bed?

Another 10 seconds and I'll have the record for studentignoring.

I can't believe you ordered Fleets q 3 !!

I'll write you a scrip, if you write me one.

His Sub grade? The jury is hung.

Two for the road!

You are the disease. We are the cure.

The Oath of Hippocrates

I do solemnly swear
By whatever I hold most sacred
That I will be loyal to the profession of medicine
And just and generous to its members.

That I will lead my life And practice my art In uprightness and honor.

That into whatsoever home I shall enter
It shall be for the good of the sick and the well to the utmost of my power
And that I will hold myself aloof from wrong
And from corruption and from the tempting of others to vice.

That I will exercise my art Solely for the cure of my patients and the prevention of disease And will give no drug nor perform any operation for a criminal purpose And far less suggest such thing.

That whatsoever I shall see or hear of the lives of men Which is not fitting to be spoken abroad I shall keep inviolably secret.

These things I do promise And in proportion as I am faithful to this oath May happiness and good repute be ever mine, The opposite if I shall be foresworn.

(This oath is the Oath of Hippocrates as revised by the Ohio State University.)

TO THE CLASS OF 1987

May you have the stomach, guts, and intestinal fortitude for the challenges of exciting professions. May you experience early satiety from fulfilling careers. May you be livers — not existers. May you turn the acid tests and galling demands of life into sweet experiences. May you always have a comfortable stool — upon which to sit and reflect upon beautiful and bountiful lives

NOW you can join AMWA!

If I water her, will she grow?

The Doctors' Lot.

The Students' Lot.

None of his colleagues noticed the fungating lesion until it was too late.

I wish I were a bottle.

In with the good air, out with the bad.

Yo Adam! Home plate's this way.
